MARCONI

SYSTEM ENABLES SHIPS AT SEA TO COMMUNICATE.

EXCHANGED NEWS WHILE MANY MILES APART.

COLLEGE PROFESSOR DECLARES

That People on Earth Will Yet Communicate With Other Planets.
Marconi's Future Plans.

New York, Dec. 17.—The Cunarder Euturia which has just arrived here, was in communication for more than five hours in midocean with her sister ship, the Umbria. Long before either ship sighted the other, their commanders were conversing by the Marconi wireless system. The position of each ship was known on the other before their main trucks showed above the horizon. The Euturia left Liverpool on December 7, the same day the Umbria steamed out of New York. They were 1630 miles east, northeast of Sandy Hook, when they passed each other last Wednesday, or in latitude 45.7 and longitude 51.7.

Five hours before that or when they were fully 100 miles apart, the receiver on the Euturia began to click warningly. The operator replied and then the word "Umbria" was slowly spelled out on the Euturia's instrument. Then followed the Umbria's location, which showed her to be fully 100 miles away from the other vessel. The Umbria sent her number of passengers, the fact that all was well and the latest news from New York. The Euturia sent word of the burning of the great Liverpool exchange quadrangle which occurred on Dec. 6, while the Euturia was lying in the Mersey.

What Marconi Says:

New York, Dec. 17.—The Herald today published the following:

"St. Johns, N. F., Dec. 16, 1901.

"Before leaving England I arranged for our long-distance station near the Lizard to signal to me the letter 'S' repeatedly for three hours, when I advised them that I was ready to receive the same. I cabled on Monday that all was in readiness, and asked that the signal be sent at short intervals between 3 and 6 o'clock Greenwich time, and to be continued each day until ordered to stop. This time would correspond approximately with 11 to 2:30 o'clock here.

"I received on Thursday indications of the signals at 12:30 o'clock, and with certain and unmistakable clearness at 1:10 quite a succession of 'S' being received with distinctness. A further number was received at 2:26 the latter not so good. Signals were received Friday at 1:28 o'clock, but not so distinct as on Thursday.

"I am of the opinion that the reason why I did not obtain continuous results were: First, the fluctuation in the height of the kite, which suspended the aerial wire, and, second, the extreme delicacy of my receiving instruments, which were very sensitive and had to be adjusted repeatedly during the course of the experiments.

"When a permanent station is installed here I will not be dependent upon fluctuations of the wind, and I am confident of making the signals strong and reliable; that is, not requiring such delicate and sensitive receiving instruments by employing much greater power at the sending station.

"I must go immediately to England to make arrangements for employing more power at the sending station, and I trust in a very short time to establish communication between the two continents in a thoroughly reliable and commercial manner."

MARCONI.

May Communicate With Planets.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 17.—Dr. Jos. S. Ames, one of the most distinguished members of the faculty of the Johns Hopkins University, is of the belief that by Marconi's system of wireless telegraphy communication between the earth and some of the other planets is not beyond the range of possibilities.

"Given certain conditions," says Dr. Ames, "I certainly believe that it is possible to transmit messages to the other planets. We know that the ether which fills all space extends, for instance, to the beginning of the Marconi atmosphere, which is presumably similar to our own.

"Wherever there is no obstruction to the passage of the electrical current—that is, where it passes continuously through ether—a message may be sent. Given a dynamo of enormous power, thousands of times greater than those now in use, and a being on the planet of Mars, armed with an equally powerful receiver and educated to our language and telegraphic system, and the proposition solves itself. However, it will probably be some years before we reach this stage of development," added the doctor ironically.

"Marconi is not, as is popularly supposed, the discoverer of this or any other system," he continued. "He has simply adapted the ideas of a number of other men and systematized them. However, this does not detract from the credit which should be given him for putting those ideas into use."

ELECTROCUTION

OF STORTI TODAY THE FIRST IN MASSACHUSETTS.

Murderer of Golucci Died at the First Shock—Three Shocks Were Used.

Boston, Dec. 17.—Luigi Storti, the Italian murderer, was at last electrocuted at the state prison here this morning. He is the first victim of the electric chair in this state. There were three shocks of 1740 volts each. Death came with the first shock. The crime for which Storti was executed was the killing in a drunken brawl of Michael Golucci in this city on November 7, 1899.

TWO WOMEN

Literally Ground to Pieces Under the Wheels of a Coal Train at Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Dec. 17.—Mrs. J. Glover and Mrs. Jessie Powell, both prominent in church and social circles of Russia Heights, were literally ground to pieces. They were returning from a literary tea at the house of Mrs. Dr. Huser, and just in front of their homes they stood on the westbound tracks of the Panhandle railroad to let a heavy coal train pass. A light engine going west struck them, throwing them under the coal train. Their bodies were horribly mangled.

Suicide and a Clew.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Samuel C. Presley, a printer 39 years of age, was found dead in bed in his room at 1119 K street, the house adjoining that of Mrs. Ada Gilbert Dennis, the modiste, who was mysteriously assaulted a week ago in her apartments. Death was attributed to suicide by inhaling illuminating gas. The police found in his room a key fitting the vestibule door of Mrs. Dennis' house. A boy named Lonsdale, who saw a man emerging from the Dennis house the night of the attempted murder, was taken to see the body of Presley, and said he was quite sure he was the man.

Negro's Dastardly Deed.

Athens, Ga., Dec. 17.—Louis Lambert, an 8-year-old child, was found dead in her home by an unknown young negro boy whom she had allowed to enter the house to get warm, during the absence of her parents. When he started to leave he picked up a piece of paper, stuck it in the fire, placed the burning paper under the dress of the little girl and escaped from the house. The child attempted to extinguish the flames, but was unsuccessful. The police are making every effort to find the negro.

Outlashed.

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 17.—In what was to have been a 25-round bout here before the Charleston Athletic Club, Midway, Hunniss was clearly outclassed by Tommy Feltz. Rather than have a knockout Referee Owen Ziegler stopped the fight in the third round and awarded the decision to Feltz, deciding that Hunniss was outlashed.

Froze in the Woods.

Amherst, Wis., Dec. 17.—Alexander Kirk, while delirious from smallpox, escaped from his home here and wandered about in the snowstorm. His wife, who is just recovering from the same disease, followed him for about a mile, but was overcome by the cold and turned back. Kirk's body was found later in the woods frozen stiff.

SENATE CONFIRMS

Nomination of Philander C. Knox to be Attorney General of the United States.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The nomination of Philander C. Knox to be Attorney General of the United States was confirmed by the Senate.

The discussion turned upon a motion made by Senator Jones of Arkansas to recommit the nomination to the committee on judiciary, in the meantime publishing the testimony bearing upon the case. Speeches in favor of this proposition were made by Senators Jones and Turner, and in opposition by Senators Hoar and Pettus. It was contended by the two senators last named that the only evidence presented against confirmation had been filed by members of the anti-trust league and was very vague and indefinite. The senators favoring the motion said that if this were true there could be no objection on the part of the friends of the attorney general to placing all the facts within reach of the public. They dwelt at some length upon the charge made that the attorney general, previous to entering upon the duties of that office, had been attorney for the United States Steel corporation and the armor plate manufacturers. The vote on the motion to recommit was lost. The ballot stood 43 to 1.

Senator Warren introduced an amendment to the constitution granting the right of suffrage to women. Senator Lodge introduced a bill to prohibit the sale of firearms, opium and intoxicating liquors to the natives of islands in the Pacific ocean.

Presidential Appointments.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The president sent the following nominations to the senate: To be consul of Warsaw, Russia, Angus Campbell, to be United States marshal for district of Indian Territory, B. H. Colbert, to be postmasters: George H. Roberts, Jr., at Brooklyn, N. Y.; Clayton McMichael, at Philadelphia, Pa.; to be secretary of the territory of Arizona, Isaac T. Stoddard.

Steamer Wrecked.

Marseilles, Dec. 17.—The Compagne trans-Atlantic steamer was wrecked at the mouth of the Rhone today. Attempts of life boats to rescue her passengers and crew of the vessel were unsuccessful as the sea was running high. It is feared that all will be lost.

ALARMED OVER EDISON.

New York, Dec. 17.—The condition of Thomas A. Edison is worrying his friends. As a result of hard work, irregular hours, meals and sleep, he is in a serious physical condition, which only long rest will change. He refuses to give up his work, however.

PROBABLY DROWNED IN MID OCEAN

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 17.—Capt. William Andrews and his bride sailed from Young's pier Sunday, September 28, in their 13 foot dory, The Dark Secret. They expected to touch at the Azores for fresh supplies of food and water, and to land at some point in Spain or Portugal in from six to eight weeks time.

On his former voyages across the Atlantic Captain Andrews frequently spoke passing vessels, and he was reported by them on their arrival in port, but as the "Lone Mariner" and his bride have been gone now for nearly three months, and as their landing has not been reported anywhere, it is the opinion that they have been drowned.

Ohio River High.

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 17.—It is now feared that the Ohio river will reach 45 and perhaps 50 feet which is the danger line, within the next few days. While the river is falling from Pittsburg to below Wheeling, there will be decided rises in the Ohio from Point Pleasant down. The river today passed the danger line at Point Pleasant.

Five Babies Born.

Texarkana, Texas, Dec. 17.—Mrs. William Walker, the wife of a prominent cotton raiser living near Texarkana, gave birth yesterday to five children. Four are girls and one is a boy.

There are forty counties in Texas which have to seek legal advice outside their limits, as they have not a single attorney of their own.

Humorously Expressing Their Regret Over Inability to Rob the Bank. Robbers at Work.

Lebanon, Ind., Dec. 17.—During the past night burglars dynamited the Farmers' bank and John Laughner's pharmacy, the total loot stolen being $50 and a quantity of jewelry.

The safe blowers could not get through the inside bank safe door so they got nothing in the bank and they left a humorous placard to that effect. Mr. Laughner's drug store and safe were completely wrecked. Though the police are at work today on the case there seems to be no clue.

Galatea Missing.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—The search for the schooner Galatea which went astray between Racine and Chicago Saturday night, has been temporarily abandoned. Tugs which went out to the vessels relief Monday, returned this morning reporting the vessel a complete failure. The Galatea had seven people on board.

THE COURTS

The defendant, Clement Kelley, claims to be the owner and endorsee of the notes sued upon as trustee for the children of John P. Kelley.

The plaintiff admits that while there was an assignment upon the back of the notes, they were never delivered to Clement Kelley.

The jurors were excused until the day after tomorrow at 8:30 a. m.

Gasoline Store Exploded.

St. Louis, Dec. 17.—By the explosion of a gasoline store Mrs. Mary Gleason and her daughter Marie were so badly burned the daughter died on the way to the city hospital, and the mother can not live.

BY BURGLARS

YOUNG WOMAN WAS MURDERED AT PITTSBURG.

Whole Police Force Now Working on the Case—Harriet Murphy is the Victim.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 17.—Miss Harriet Murphy, one of the best known young ladies of the East End, was found murdered this morning about 3 o'clock by a domestic who heard three shots. Miss Murphy was the victim of burglars. It is supposed she heard them enter and fired with a revolver which she had, for a bullet was embedded in the window. The young woman was shot in the back of the neck at the base of the brain. She was the treasurer of a charity fund and the burglars evidently knew she kept the late collections in the house. It is supposed that two men were implicated in the murder and the whole police force is working on the case today.

Miss Murphy, the murdered girl, was very prominent in college settlement work and a sister of Councilman H. A. Murphy, with whom she lived.

MRS. BONINE

Recently Acquitted at Murder Trial. Has Her Name Again on the Eligible List.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The civil service commission today took formal action restoring the name of Mrs. Leola Ida Bonine, recently acquitted of the murder of James Seymour Ayres, to the eligible list of civil service applicants from which she was suspended prior to her trial. Mrs. Bonine, before the tragedy, had passed a successful examination for a position in the government printing office.

TEACHER

Married a Week Ago and Now No Longer to be Found—Most Mysterious Affair.

Hamilton, O., Dec. 17.—There is a great deal of mystery in the strange disappearance of Professor Walter A. Andrews, principal of the First Ward school. He has vanished from his post and from the city, leaving not a word behind to indicate the reason for his step or his present whereabouts or future plans. It became known here last Monday that Andrews had eloped to Covington, Ky., on the previous Saturday with Miss Euphemia Dick, of Venice. He returned to his work on Monday last, leaving his bride in Covington. Thursday Andrews failed to appear at school and he did not return on Friday. This morning he again turned up missing and Superintendent Rose took personal charge of the school and notified the Board of Education, which has ordered an investigation. It is not known whether Andrews will ever return.

TO ARBITRATE

DIFFERENCES BETWEEN CAPITAL AND LABOR.

The Purpose of a Committee to be Appointed at the Meeting Held in New York.

New York, Dec. 17.—The plan of the representatives of capital and labor now in session here to bring about harmony between the two forces, is to appoint an executive committee to arbitrate all differences between employers and employees. It will be a sort of supreme court organized for the peaceful settlement of all labor troubles. Among its members will probably be President Schwab, of the Steel Trust, Senator Hanna, and S. R. Galloway, president of the American Locomotive Works, and others representing capital. Samuel Gompers, Theodore Shaffer, John Mitchell and others will represent organized labor. Other members of the committee representing neutrals will be composed of such men as Bishop Potter, Archbishop Ireland, Abraham Hewitt, Oscar Straus and James Reynolds.

New York, Dec. 17.—The Labor-Capital conference today Samuel Gompers was enthusiastically received. He said in part, that capital had always turned its back when it came to recognize labor. He said a contract made with an employer should be inviolate as his oath of allegiance to the country. He said however, he would not join in the huge cry against the combinations of capital. He objected however, to the trusts interfering with political work and the judiciary.

SINGULAR CASE.

Suicide Followed by a Charge of Embezzlement.

Ottumwa, Ia., Dec. 17.—George D. Dubose, until recently confidential bookkeeper of the Iowa and Illinois Coal company, is accused of embezzling $1,700 from the company and is confined in the detention hospital here, suffering from smallpox. His arrest has committed suicide in Chicago. Dubose's alleged crime was discovered by Michael Livish of Chicago, who came here three weeks ago to fill Dubose's position while Dubose was ill. One week after arrival here Livish claimed to have discovered the alleged shortage and so reported to his employers. Brooding over the possibility of the report sending Dubose to the penitentiary seems to have led Livish to resign, return to Chicago and later to commit suicide.

Fatally Burned.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 17.—Claude Strader, 22 and Ed Blue, 24, coal miners, were fatally burned by the explosion of a keg of powder which they were trying to open with a pick in the Harris & Langford mine, one mile west of this city. Blue's eyes were burned out by the explosion and Strader lost an eye. When the explosion occurred both men were hauled 20 feet away and their clothing had burned from their bodies before rescuers reached them. There is no hope for their recovery.

ALASKA COPPER

Discovered in Quantities Sufficient to Supply the Markets of the Whole World.

Seattle, Dec. 17.—Major W. R. Abbercrombie, who for four years has been supervising and directing the United States government development and exploration work in the Copper river valley, has arrived here from Alaska. He has been assigned to the command of the Thirtieth infantry in the Philippines.

As a result of Abbercrombie's work the town of Valdez has sprung into existence, from which point the military road has been constructed 264 miles to the interior. A stretch of 170 miles of telegraph line from Valdez to the interior is up and in working order.

In the construction of this all-American highway to the Yukon, the government has expended $121,000, and already gold to the value of $160,000 has been taken out.

Major Abbercrombie says there is every reason to believe there is an almost inexhaustible supply of copper ore in that section of Alaska and that it is also rich in other minerals and agricultural resources.

CAPTAIN HOBSON

Of Merrimac Fame at Santiago, is Soon to Wed a Springfield, O., Young Lady.

Springfield, O., Dec. 17.—Miss Eleanor Ludlow, niece of ex-Governor Bushnell, denies that she is engaged to Captain Richard P. Hobson, of Merrimac fame, as reported.

Springfield, O., Dec. 17.—Captain Richard P. Hobson of Merrimac fame has succumbed to the wiles of Cupid, and his engagement was announced to Miss Eleanor Ludlow, one of the most beautiful young women in Springfield. Captain Hobson attended the opening of the new Young Men's Christian association building in this city last fall, and while here met Miss Ludlow, who was one of the party having charge of the arrangements for the opening. He has been a frequent visitor in this city since that time. Captain Hobson arrived in the city Monday and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Miller, who gave a dinner in honor of the bride and bridegroom-to-be. Miss Ludlow is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ludlow and is a niece of former Governor Bushnell. The wedding will take place in February.

Taken to Toledo.

Detroit, Dec. 17.—William T. Bradford, who was under arrest here by the United States authorities on a charge of unlawful use of the mails, was taken to Toledo, O., to testify for the government against George Ammon, a former officer of Lucas county, O., who is charged with allowing four prisoners to escape from the Toledo jail. The four men were under arrest there on a charge of breaking into the postoffice at West Toledo and blowing open the safe. Bradford was confined in the Toledo jail with them and later was brought to this city. While here he wrote a letter to Ammon stating that he overheard the formation of the plot to allow the escape of the prisoners, and which included a payment of $500 to Ammon in the letter Bradford demanded a share of the money. The letter was intercepted.

Mrs. McKinley's Condition.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Relatives of Mrs. McKinley have little hope of her living long, according to a statement made by Lieutenant James McKinley, United States army, a nephew of the late president. Lieutenant McKinley passed through Chicago in company with General S. B. M. Young, the successor of General Shafter, in command at the Presidio, the military headquarters on the Pacific coast. Continuing, the lieutenant said: "My aunt in Canton remains in about the same condition that she was immediately after the funeral of the president. There has been no improvement, and there seems no hope of any."

Quite a Fire.

Bridgeport, O., Dec. 17.—Fire destroyed two large dwelling houses and one store, causing a loss of $8,000. All fire plugs in the neighborhood were frozen and the whole square was in danger.

SUICIDE FOLLOWED BY A CHARGE OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Ottumwa, Ia., Dec. 17.—George D. Dubose, until recently confidential bookkeeper of the Iowa and Illinois Coal company, is accused of embezzling $1,700 from the company and is confined in the detention hospital here, suffering from smallpox. His arrest has committed suicide in Chicago. Dubose's alleged crime was discovered by Michael Livish of Chicago, who came here three weeks ago to fill Dubose's position while Dubose was ill. FRIENDS

OF SCHLEY WILL APPEAL TO CONGRESS.

RESOLUTION COMMENDING HIM INTRODUCED TODAY.

ADMIRAL SAMPSON PROTESTS

Against Admiral Dewey's Report. Committees Named Today in Senate—Congress' Doings.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Mr. Frye introduced in the Senate today a joint resolution authorizing the President of the United States to tender an invitation to the King of Siam to visit the United States as a guest of the nation and making an appropriation to enable the President to extend appropriate hospitality. The time of the visit of the King has not yet been determined, but it will be before the middle of the year, it is believed.

Washington, Dec. 17.—This afternoon the Senate confirmed Wm. Carey Sanger to be assistant secretary of war.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The House committee on interstate and foreign commerce today took up the Pacific cable bills and decided to give public hearings on the same beginning Jan. 11. The elements which last year favored private construction and subsidy are this year lined up in favor of government ownership.

Washington, Dec. 17.—A caucus of Republican Senators today decided upon Republican representation upon the Senate committees. Senators McLaughlin (Dem. S. C.) and Wellington (Rep. Md.) are provided with places generally on unimportant committees and in each case their names appear as last on the list. The chairmen of important committees are as follows: the chairmen being named first: Appropriations—Allen (Iowa); Quar, (Pa.); Finance—Aldrich (R. I.); Jones (Nev.); Foreign Relations—Cullom (Ills.); Spooner (Wis.); Fairbanks (Ind.); Kean (N. J.); Commerce—Frye (Me.); Jones (Nev.); Perkins (Cal.)

NEW ELEMENT

Injected into the Schley Case—Will Sampson Protest Against Dewey's Report.

Washington, Dec. 17.—A new element was injected into the Schley case today. It is now reported that the intention of Admiral Sampson is to file a protest with the navy department against Admiral Dewey's report, which gives full credit for the Santiago victory to Admiral Schley.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The Navy department admits that Admiral Sampson's attorneys have notified of an intention to file a protest against Dewey's opinion that Schley deserves the credit for the Santiago victory.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Mr. Cooper, of Texas, introduced in the House today resolutions commending Schley for the Santiago victory, restoring him to active service with rank pay and the position held before his retirement.

Congressman Mudd, of Maryland, introduced a resolution tendering the thanks of Congress and the American people to Schley and the officers and men under his command.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The Schley case will be aired in the halls of the national house and senate. The friends of the admiral have determined to bring his case to the attention of congress and seek there the vindication they claim is due him. This action was determined upon at a dinner given by General Felix Agnus and attended by Senator McComas, the Maryland members of the house and a few other friends. A resolution will be prepared extending to the admiral the thanks of congress for his services in the battle of Santiago and conferring on him the rank, pay and emoluments of a rear admiral on the active list of the navy. A preamble to the resolution will recite Admiral Dewey's conclusions of the court of inquiry.

THE GREAT RAILROAD TUNNEL.

Many new enterprises are constantly coming forth to conquer the forces of nature in the march of improvement but the great undertaking proposed by the Pennsylvania railroad reaches the climax. In brief it is to tunnel the Hudson River from New Jersey side to Manhattan island, with a continuation of the tunnel under the city and thence under East river, thus connecting the Long Island and New England lines of railroad communication with the Western and Southern lines of the Pennsylvania railroad. The company will have a central station in the heart of New York.

It is not only of tremendous consequence to New York City, but to Long Island, and will be of immense value to the whole country interested in the transportation of passengers and freight to and from the commercial and financial center of the continent.

Great advantages are pointed out in tunnel communication compared with that by bridge. The objection to the foul air of the tunnel and the smoke from coalburning locomotives is met and overcome by electric motors. The Orleans railway penetrates into the heart of Paris through an underground system using electricity, the conditions being much the same as in New York.

As to the financial part of the New York and river tunnels, it will be under the direction of a chartered company subsidiary to the Pennsylvania railroad. The expectations are that it may be completed by the close of 1904. The entire cost is put at $50,000,000.

THE PEOPLE WILL RENDER JUDGMENT.

The Washington correspondent says that the report of the naval court, in part censuring and in part indicating Admiral Schley, will probably be accepted on all sides as satisfactory and end the controversy on the subject. The correspondent is mistaken. The controversy is not ended. It is yet in its early stages. The American people who read the evidence are a capable and more honest jury than the two frauds on the court of inquiry who combined against Admiral Dewey. The hero of Manila rendered a just verdict in behalf of the hero of Santiago. The great American jury—the people—will render the same righteous judgment.

THE REPUBLICAN FIGHT.

The Republican factions of Ohio are now at each other in more fierce and determined combat than they have been since the famous Bushnell-Hanna contest of 1897. Once more it is the Forakerites against the Hannanites. It is chiefly about the leaves and fishes, the official plums, which each side claims. The organization of the legislature is to be the basis for a beautiful scrap. Let 'em go. It may look undignified, but they'll hurt nobody but themselves.

Another Victim of the Types.

A Missouri editor whose types converted 'spider web social' into 'spindle leg social' has taken to the hills, a wanderer upon the face of the earth, not through fear of the ladies who attended the party, but because his amazonian wife is so unreasonable as to insist upon being shown how he secured his information.

Might Improve Our Trade.

About the best thing that could be done by Roosevelt for the promotion of American trade would be to call in all the political pensioners filling consular positions and sent out traveling men and house salesmen who know something of the business of disposing of goods.

LABOR CONVENTION AND CHINESE EXCLUSION.

The labor convention at Scranton had no difficulty in reaching a conclusion favoring the exclusion of Chinese immigration by re-enacting the Geary law, which expires in May next. The resolution went through with a hurrah, but a differing opinion was developed in considering the exclusion of the Japanese. The special committee considering the subject was divided on the exclusion of the Japanese. Mr. Gompers, the leader of the Federation, opposed the exclusion of Japanese, holding that was asking too much and would endanger Chinese exclusion, which was a present danger, while the Japanese issue was remote. The idea prevailed.

A Republican member of Congress who has an eye to the eternal fitness of things, hopefully says the Democratic minority in Congress can prevent vicious legislation if it will present a compact and harmonious body in the breach. The astute Republican is not only a diplomat, he is a statesman. He catches 'em going and coming. He desires to restrict his party to conservative and desirable legislation, but if it can't be done, he proposes to place the blame on the Democratic minority.

A London dispatch gives the details in the British concentration camps in South Africa during the months of October and November, and they are shocking to the world. The total for the two months was 5,963, of which number 1,904 were children. The total number of deaths of Boers penned up in these camps for the last six months is 13,941, or a rate nearing 253 per 1,000.

The Handmaiden of Monopoly.

Reciprocity, the handmaiden of protection, as high-tariff republicans now delight to term that vague and evasive policy, will doubtless be found to have earned the title beyond all dispute before the fifty-fifth congress shall have reached the day of final adjournment. What still remains to be seen, however, is whether the general public will be fooled into believing that such a handmaiden serves any but monopoly interests.

The Scheme Altogether Bad.

The subsidy scheme is altogether bad and objectionable. It is a plan to enable certain steamship companies to get their grab on the public treasury under the plea of building up an American merchant marine. At the same time, every ship yard in the United States is having more work than it can do and is working night and day.

Vicious in Every Feature.

The ship subsidy bill is a steal pure and simple. It proposes to take the people's money and present it to industries already established and profitable. It is in the interest of a class. It is vicious in principle. Healthy industries are not developed in such manner. The bill rests upon falsehood and misrepresentation and ought never to become a law.

Grand Army of Papsuckers.

The register of federal officeholders just published contains 222,000 names and does not include the enlisted men of the army and navy. This represents a remarkable increase within two or three years, and almost entirely from the colonial venture growing out of the Spanish war. In the department at Washington alone there are now 23,160 employees, against 19,446 two years ago.

President Roosevelt seems to be worrying the Republican bosses more than he is disturbing any other persons just now. What move he may next make which will affect their political fortunes is a matter of constant speculation and painful doubt.

Laundry Workers' Union.

Regular meeting, Tuesday evening, Dec. 17 at Labor Hall (over Maybold's shoe store). THE LIE AGREED UPON

(Chicago Chronicle.)
History, said the great Napoleon, wholly in the hands of his subordinates made this disgraceful conspiracy possible. The makers of a long peace produced the conditions from which sprang the evil spirits of greed, rivalry, jealousy and malice. With the great weight of departmental influence exerted in behalf of the lie agreed upon, with such friends of the accused as ventured to array themselves on his side sent quickly to the remotest stations, with the most splendid rewards held out to and actually conferred upon those who made common cause with the department, with records mutilated and suppressed and with no words of rebuke for all this from president or secretary, if there had not been a Dewey in the service there is not much doubt that the verdict of the court would have been unanimously against the sailor who fought and won the battle of Santiago.

Under these circumstances the demand for a congressional inquiry must become so insistent that it cannot be denied. A law unto themselves in department and in the service, the naval clique may hoodwink presidents and secretaries, but it cannot escape the searching eye and the wholesome authority of its real master. Congress has a duty here to itself and to the navy. It should act with vigor and without delay. If the United States navy is not to become the jest and riddle of the world the small self-seekers who now control its more important personal affairs must be exposed and punished. They are an offense to every loyal American; they have overreached themselves. They are convicted out of their own mouths and by their own acts in spite of all their intimidated courts. A congressional inquiry followed by suitable action for the reorganization of an establishment which is now manifestly rotten through and through should be the demand of every patriotic citizen. A navy which humiliates and punishes its Schleys, which for despicable ends throws discredit upon its most glorious achievements, which robs the victor not only of his laurels but of his fortune, which punishes truth and rewards lies and which sets in the place of honor the absentee and the braggart and the slacker may have heavy armor and powerful guns, but it is a rotten navy nevertheless.

"Ships are but boards, sailors but men. There be land rats and water rats, water thieves and land thieves," says Shakespeare. The Nation which is pouring out its treasure lavishly for the construction of a majestic armament for the sea will do well to keep most of its rats and thieves and falsifiers on shore. They will fail in the hour of supreme danger and necessity.

The dissent of George Dewey to the malicious lie agreed on in the navy department is the dissent also of the American people. The disease which afflicts the United States navy is not an unusual one. It is to be found in every place where men struggle without wholesome restraint for place, for power for fame. An easy-going president and a secretary of the navy

AN ABHORRENT SPECTACLE.
American opposition to the Boer war is becoming more pronounced, and is generally met by the question, what are we going to do about it; what business is it of ours? Carl Schurz met this question in the letter he wrote to the great Boer meeting in Chicago addressed by Bourke Cochran. He said:
But we are asked: "What are we going to do about it?" Whatever speaking from the point of view of international policy—whatever we may be unable or unwilling to do, one thing at least we certainly may do. We may give voice to our sense of justice and our human sympathies. We may help in manifesting the judgment of civilized mankind upon what is going on, so that those responsible for what is being done in South Africa, as well as their apologists, may understand it.
They should be made to know that not only habitual adversaries of England, but many of her friends, who would testify gladly to the true glories of her history, who want their own governments to maintain with her relations of peace and hearty good will, and who wish her the fullest measure of happiness and prosperity in all things righteous, witness with shame and abhorrence this spectacle of a great power, that claims to stand in the foremost rank of civilized and liberty-loving nations, slaughtering a little people—men, women and children—because they do what the best peoples in the history of the world have done—hold fast with indomitable spirit to their national independence and struggle on for the free possession of their homes.

GERMANY'S "HUNGER TAX."

In the hot discussion going on in the German reichstag over the new tariff bill, Protection gets a harsher name than it has ever received in the American Congress, although the principle involved is exactly the same. Herr Bebel, the socialist leader, said the proposed tariff would create only two classes—the plundered and the plunderers—that it laid a tax of 700,000,000 marks on food in order to make more probable the occupation of 15 per cent of the population. "To hades with the hunger tax," exclaimed the orator in conclusion, amid uproarious applause. Germany is engaged in one of the great battles of its history over this "hunger tax." It is supported by the emperor, by the government, by the great land owners, but bitterly opposed by the industrial classes and the traders, comprising a great majority of the people.

THE LOST JEWEL

In one of the oldest houses in one of the oldest streets in the ancient city of Worms dwelt the worthy burgher Philip Dorn, a jeweler and a cunning workman in gold and silver. It happened that one day a young countryman came to his house with a stone which he had found in the neighboring mountains and had brought to Philip as an honest man and one whom he could trust. The jeweler took the stone and after examining it attentively said with a careless air that it was of small value, but that he would give him 20 thalers for it. The countryman, who knew nothing of the value of precious stones, instantly agreed, and Philip paid him the money. As soon as he was gone our jeweler took the gem, which was a jacinth of great value, and regarded it with a well satisfied smile.

In a short time another visitor came to Philip. He was a little man of well fed appearance, with enormous green spectacles, a high crowned hat and high heeled shoes. This person demanded a stone proper for a ring, such as a diamond or an amethyst. Philip took down the case in which he had deposited his precious jacinth and exhibited its contents to the stranger, who selected a fine diamond, for which Philip took care to ask double what it was worth, but the stranger paid him his demand without grudging and went away, saying that he would soon see him again.

Soon after Philip took down the case to feast his eyes upon his jewel, when, on opening it, to his consternation, no jacinth was to be found. In vain he searched every corner. The gem was flown.

In great distress of mind Philip went out and was pondering an apology for the morning when, on turning a corner, he felt some one tap him on the shoulder and, turning round, saw the gentleman in the green spectacles, who, with a knowing wink, asked him what had become of his jacinth. The jeweler was rather surprised, as he did not remember having seen the stranger examine it, so he very naturally asked him if he knew anything about it. "That I do, Herr Philip,"

The stranger informed Philip that he could not tell him at present, but that if he came that evening to the forest at the foot of the Schneberg mountain he would see and perhaps regain his jacinth. Philip promised to be punctual, on which the gentleman said adieu, telling him that he had gone business to transact, but would be back in time.

He waited with the utmost impatience for the appointed time, and when at length it began to grow dark he set out with a beating heart for the rendezvous. Soon he approached the forest and saw the clouds eddying around the summit of the Schneberg. He went on his way rejoicing, and, although at the first step in the wood he plunged up to the neck in a morass, so immersed was he in his delight at the prospect of regaining his jacinth that he scarcely noticed his immersion in the water. On he passed through bush, through brake, frequently coming in contact with the trunks of trees, to the utter discomfiture of his seat and sober wig. The bushes seemed to get thicker and the pools deeper the farther he proceeded, and at length he was fairly brought to a stand by a broad sheet of water, the leaping of which was out of the question even to a much better leaper than our friend Philip.

While he was standing considering what was to be done, he heard a voice crying: "Here comes my worthy friend, Philip Dorn! Prepare ye the way for him!" And shouts of laughter rang through the forest. At this Philip was amazed; but, seeing the pool disappear, he stepped boldly forward and found himself at the rock appointed as the place of meeting.

The gentleman in the green spectacles made his appearance on the top of it and greeted Philip with great politeness, and, although the rock was very precipitous, he walked down it with the greatest ease and stood at Philip's side. "Now," said he, "Herr Dorn, you will be good enough to follow me a little farther," to which Philip bowed assent though he would rather have been excused. On they went for a considerable time through a part of the forest that Philip had never seen before till at length they reached a wilderness of rocks which appeared broken from the mountain. They still proceeded between two high walls of rock till they came to a wide cavern, brilliantly lighted, in which Philip saw his jacinth suspended by a gold chain, which seemed to ascend to an immense height, as its other end was lost in the darkness. "Now," said his companion, "there is your jacinth. You have but to stretch out your hand, and it is yours." Philip stepped forward and laid hold of the jewel and attempted to take it from the chain, when suddenly he felt the earth sink beneath his feet and, attempting to pull the jewel away, found it firmly bound to the wall. He turned round in agony to his companion and saw him standing, laughing immoderately, with his spectacles in one hand and his eyes flaming like burning coals. "Hold fast, friend Philip!" he cried. "Hold fast!" and instantly vanished in the darkness. The cavern closed with a fearful crash, and shouts of laughter, mingled with cries of "Hold fast, hold fast!" were the last sounds that were ever heard by the jeweler of Worms.

Likely to Have It.
"He likes excitement," said the young man.
"No I supposed," replied the dear girl, "Why?"

FRIENDS

giving Admiral Schley the credit for the victory of the battle of Santiago. Senator McComas will introduce the resolution in the senate and probably Mr. Mudd a similar one in the house. If deemed expedient an effort will be made to give Admiral Schley the rank of vice admiral. The resolutions will be prepared promptly and introduced in both houses, and an attempt will be made to have early action on them.

The senate ratified the Hay-Pauncefote treaty by the decisive vote of 72 to 6. The vote was reached after almost five hours' discussion behind closed doors. There were no sensational incidents during this entire time. The debate was confined exclusively to a discussion of the merits of the agreement, and the policy of its provisions. The principal speech of the day was made by Senator Teller, in opposition to the treaty, and he was followed in rapid succession by 12 or 15 other senators who spoke briefly either for or against the motion to ratify.

Senator Mason made a strong plea for the treaty, expressing his gratification that American diplomacy had succeeded in securing succeeded in securing such a triumph as was this treaty over the original Hay-Pauncefote agreement. Senator Bacon's speech was made in connection with a motion to amend the treaty. In presenting this amendment he said he was in favor of the canal and would vote for the treaty with the Davis amendment. He said he opposed the treaty because he did not believe it would give the United States full control of the canal. He said that Great Britain rejected the amended Hay-Pauncefote treaty, but sent us another treaty about identical with the former treaty, as amended except as regards the Davis amendment. He considered that fact the most important feature of the whole controversy.

There was an exceptionally full senate when the time arrived for a vote. After two attempts at amendment had failed, the treaty was ratified, the following senators voting against it: Bacon, Blackburn, Culberson, Mallory, Teller and Tillman.

An echo of the verdict of the court of inquiry in the case of Rear Admiral Schley was heard when Mr. Jones of Arkansas introduced a resolution extending the thanks of congress and of the American people to Admiral Schley and officers and men under his command during the battle of July 3, 1898, off the harbor of Santiago, Cuba, in submitting the resolution Mr. Jones made no statement, and it was referred without comment to the committee on naval affairs.

A CONJURER'S TRICK

He was only a poor little Frenchman, chief (and only) prestidigitator, conjurer and sleight of hand artist at "Montmorenci's" wonderful, world renowned circus." Still, it was rather impudent of him, a fellow little man of fifty, to fall in love with pretty Nellie Waring, the principal bareback rider. Poor Nellie told him it could not be.

"Besides," she said, "there's Jack, you know."

Jack Thornhill was the big, handsome trapeze artist.

There was one man named Haycraft, who came regularly every night. He used to leave boxes of sweets at the door for Nellie and throw bouquets to her every night. Neither she nor Jack took any notice of this at first, but one evening, when the bouquet contained a bracelet set with pearls and a note asking for a meeting at an appointed place, Jack got wild.

Jack consulted with the Panjandrum as to what he should do and promptly received the only advice the poor little man could think of giving—to challenge the fellow to a duel. This Jack explained, was impossible, but said that the next best thing would be a thrashing and asked his friend to accompany him to the place next day and "watch the performance."

Jack approached to where Haycraft was standing and asked him "if the note was his writing." He received the defiant request to mind his own business.

Haycraft was no coward, but he knew he was no match for Jack, so he stepped back a pace or two and drew a revolver.

Jack sprang at him with his fist clinched and grasped the revolver. There was a short struggle, during which they fell together on the ground. Then there was a report, and then Jack rose, breathless, leaving his opponent lying still and motionless, with the revolver clutched in his hand.

A very ugly rumor began to gain ground among the company, and all advised Jack to clear out of the neighborhood for a time. It was to the effect that Haycraft had sworn that Jack Thornhill had shot him and that a warrant was out for his arrest for attempted murder.

Jack's appearance on the trapeze was just before the Panjandrum's show, and it was while the former was taking place that the little man noticed among the audience one night, with his eyes fixed intently on Jack, a burly inspector, whom he had seen several times in the town.

He stepped into the arena and was greeted with the customary applause, for he was a great favorite with the audience.

"Ladies and gentlemen, tonight I have to honor to present to your notice a trick which is new, all entirely new. I was made to cook in ze week at, off any gentleman shall be so good as to lend him me. Ah, ze gentleman zero," and walking up to the inspector and leading him, not unwillingly, into the arena amid a roar of laughter, "he will be so good as to assist of me."

"I borrow your seek 'at, sare," the little man went on, taking the hat from the inspector's head with a flourish, "and I breaks zese two eggs in him, as you see."

He produced the two eggs, apparently from the victim's breast pocket. His eyes sparkled strangely as he went on, tapping the inspector knowingly two or three times on the breast, where he heard the rustling of paper. Then he proceeded to break the shells and let the yolks fall into the hat, amid roars of laughter at his owner's disconsolate face.

"Now you must cook 'em, but I not hurt ze 'at. I take zese two pieces of papir," which he produced very quickly and apparently from nowhere, "and I light zem—so. Now you must hold zem under ze 'at till they are quite burnt out."

The inspector took the paper as directed and held it at some distance under the hat till the last portion was consumed, when the Panjandrum, after a few passes and some cabalistic words, produced the omelet in a dexterous manner and showed the hat unharmed.

While the audience was clearing out of the theater the inspector remained standing in the arena, when he turned round to Montmorenci and said:

"Now, look here. I don't wish to be unpleasant at all, and I've got my duty to perform, and it must be done. There's one of you people wanted for attempted murder, and I want to take him away now. It's Jack Thornhill."

The Panjandrum, now quietly smoking a cigarette, stepped into the middle of the group and said:

"Perhaps the gentleman, before he takes our friend away, will tell us his authority for doing so."

"Certainly. I have a warrant signed by a magistrate."

He put his hand into his breast pocket; then he turned pale and hastily fell in the other ones, and, oblivious of the presence of the lady artistes, he used a bad word. "I've lost it!" he burst out.

Before a new warrant could be obtained Haycraft had relented and confessed that he had shot himself by accident.

Six months afterward, when Jack and Nellie had been married, the world renowned circus and entertainment came to town again, and the inspector came to spend a friendly evening with the company.

In the course of conversation he asked the Panjandrum if he could imagine what had become of the warrants on that night, whereupon the little Frenchman, with a shrug of his shoulders and a wink at his friends, answered:

"You used them to cook the omelet."

CONFERENCE

AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES IS IN SESSION.

Program to be Carried Out With One Change—Leader Arrived From New York.

The program for the Presbyterian conference now in session in the First and Second Presbyterian churches of this city will be carried out to the letter, except that the popular meeting for tonight at 7:15 o'clock will be held in the Auditorium of the First Church, and not in the Second church, as announced.

The afternoon session opened this afternoon with a short business session at which Rev. L. S. Boyce, Rev. J. A. Liggett, Rev. F. A. Wilbur, Rev. W. H. Hamilton, and Rev. G. R. Dickinson, were appointed a committee of one each to hold evangelical services in their respective churches during the winter and appoint a suitable person to hold evangelical services in the vacant churches in the county.

The conference proper opened with prayer, singing and devotional exercises.

Rev. L. S. Boyce who presided read a letter from Rev. J. Balcom Shaw, of New York, stating that his little boy had developed pneumonia and it would not be safe to leave until the crisis had passed.

Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman telegraphed: "Dr. Shaw detained by illness. Another good man will be sent."

A later telegram from Dr. Chapman said: "Dr. Arthur J. Smith will arrive in Newark in time for Tuesday afternoon's session conference."

In still another telegram a different Dr. Smith was mentioned. The train was several hours late and Dr. Smith did not arrive in time for the devotional services.

Rev. L. S. Boyce conducted the devotional services, the sermon tonight being delivered by Dr. A. J. Smith.

3:30 p. m.—Rev. Arthur J. Smith of New York City arrived at 3 o'clock and addressed the meeting.

Mr. E. E. Evans, foreman of the B. & O. round house and Mr. L. B. Munch, time-keeper at the Baltimore & Ohio shops, this city, left on 104 today for Baltimore, to attend a meeting of the directors of the B. & O. Relief department. They will probably return home on Friday.

WOULD HAVE PEACE.

Lord Rosebery Advocates a Truce With the Boers.

ADDRESSES A BIG LIBERAL MEETING.

Protests Vigorously Against the Present Policies of the Government. Places His Services at the Disposal of His Countrymen—England's Decline in Education and Commerce.

London, Dec. 17.—An immense crowd assembled at Chesterfield to hear Lord Rosebery's much heralded speech. The auditors were demonstrative and enthusiastic, but the address can hardly be said to have thrown very much light along the pathway of the Liberal party. Resolved into its elements, the speech merely said, "Get together." The speaker himself confessed that he did not pretend to say how this cohesion should be accomplished. Lord Rosebery touched upon education, in which, he said, Great Britain was woefully behind her sister nations. Her commercial development was also sadly atrophied, and the time would soon come when Britain would be forced to fight for trade supremacy. She would then be as helpless as though armed with bows and arrows. Lord Rosebery maintained a discreet vagueness on the question of his personal inclinations concerning the leadership of the Liberal party. The speaker's recipe for the proposed reorganization of the war office was a characteristically American effort, namely, the appointment of a commission.

Concerning the government's conduct of the war, Lord Rosebery was severe and scornful. While he was emphatic on the necessity of vigorously prosecuting the war and expressing the fullest confidence in Lord Kitchener, Lord Rosebery said that he thought the government should be prepared to listen to peace overtures, and he contended there was nothing degrading or abusing in recognizing the exiled Boer government for the purpose of making peace.

No sane Boer now hoped for anything but annexation, Lord Rosebery said, and for many reasons it was urged that the war should be ended. The Boers should not be unnecessarily humiliated. The former premier protested emphatically against treating the Boers in the field as bandits. To Boers swearing allegiance, he said, he would give the largest possible amnesty and the fullest civil rights. The 40,000 prisoners must be resettled in South Africa and harsh treatment of the Boers would be like applying sparks to gunpowder.

In conclusion, and amid loud cheers, Lord Rosebery declared his services were at the disposal of the country in anything he could do to further the policy he had just expounded. He said it was not to party that he appealed, but to the country. He appealed to the party in this matter could avail little or nothing. He appealed to Caesar from the parliament, with its half-hearted but overwhelming government supporters, and from disaffected and disunited opposition to that silent but supreme tribunal which in the long run, shaped and controlled the destinies of the British people, namely, the tribunal of opinion and common sense.

Young from delivering to Spalding any of the books, records or papers of the league. METHODISTS

Of the East Newark Church Will Hold an Important Meeting Tonight. New Church.

An important meeting of the Second Methodist Episcopal church members will be held this evening at the residence of Mr. S. S. Brown on Tuscawas street at which further business in connection with the proposed new church will be transacted.

For several months, the pastor, Rev. M. W. Acton, and leading members of his congregation have been working on plans and securing subscriptions for a fine new church to be erected at the northeast corner of Cedar and East Main streets and the proposition is now coming to a focus.

More room is needed by this growing and thriving church and the pastor and the members of the congregation feel that that time is ripe for a new edifice. A handsome structure that will be a credit and ornament to the city will be erected.

At a meeting of the building committee of the Second M. E. Church, held last spring, it was decided to build a new church edifice on the grounds owned by the church, corner of Cedar and East Main streets.

The plans were drawn by architects Browne, Davis & Co., of Cincinnati and Chicago.

At a meeting held last Tuesday, the plans drawn by the architect were accepted, and these plans were sent to furnace men in Mt. Vernon and Newark, for their bids for heating.

Tonight the system of heating will be decided upon and the plans will be sent back to the architect.

The members of the building committee are M. E. Davis, Joseph Montgomery, George Johnson, I. G. Burkham, Wesley Montgomery, B. F. Statter, Charles Heim, S. F. Brown and Dr. W. M. Beatty.

A Colonial Kick.

Sydney, Dec. 17.—The premier, R. J. Sedgwick, addressing the New Zealand troops which have just returned from South Africa, referred in severe terms to the British war office and its attempts to snub the colonies. He said that if the colonies had been given a freer hand and had been less bound by red tape the results would have been better. Should the British army be required elsewhere, the premier added, Canada and the other colonies could now easily finish the war.

Blizzard Victims.

Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 17.—Reports from the Kiowa and Comanche reservation state there is much suffering there, due to the blizzard of the last three days, among people who were traveling in wagons or were living in tents. Two children of a family named Harkness from Iowa are reported to have been frozen to death. The family was traveling in a wagon and the night came on while they were in the mountains, distant from any house.

SUICIDE

Deliberately Planned—Tax Paid, and Will Made, but the Plan Failed at Last.

London, O., Dec. 17.—Anthony Bacher, a prominent and well-to-do German citizen, attempted to commit suicide yesterday by cutting his throat. The attempt was made with the utmost deliberation. He settled his business affairs by paying his taxes and by drawing up and executing a will. He then purchased a razor at a hardware store, returned home and ate his dinner with his family who observe nothing unusual in his conduct. He arose from the table, went to his room, divested himself of all clothing except underclothing, took a position before a mirror and slashed himself across the throat twice, inflicting a wound about five inches long, partially severing the windpipe, but missing all the large veins of the neck. Physicians were immediately called and rendered what assistance they could. No motive has been assigned for the deed. His family relations were pleasant, and his financial affairs prosperous.

THE KNOCK AT THE DOOR

The pessimist was sitting alone in his chamber. A cold fall moon looked in upon him from across the dark roof of the city outlined in somber silhouette against the star lit sky. A sickly smile hovered over his pale visage, and his lips were set as in the suppression of an inward curse. His hands lay folded pensively across his thin legs, and he looked out over the shadowy house-tops with a dull suggestion of hatred in his bloodshot eyes.

Suddenly there came a low tapping at the door behind him. He arose with a muttered curse at this having his thoughts interrupted and approached the door lazily.

"What do I want?" he demanded in a sharp voice.

But there was no reply. He opened the door cautiously, and only a cold gust of midnight air entered the dark apartment. He glanced out into the silent hallway and saw again the same familiar darkness that he had seen when he entered his room. Confused, startled, he drew his hand thoughtfully across his brow, then closed the door carefully and locked it. A moment later he seated himself in the chair by the open casement and stared out through the nocturnal shadows.

It was quite cold, and a few patches of snow were gleaming brightly on many of the house-tops, but the pessimist was unconconscious of the cold.

"Why do I live?" he asked himself. And the echo of his own voice came back to his ears from beyond the hallway.

"There is an object in every life," the voice said to him. "We all have a mission to fulfill."

"Yes," he answered the voice, with something of a spectral tone in his own, "and the object of mine is to ascertain the limit of man's endurance, the capacity of human beings for pain. Some day I will reach the limit. Some day my capacity will be exceeded."

While he was speaking there came to his ears the sound of a human voice in the alley below his window. It seemed like a low groan, ending in a sharp, mournful cry, as of an infant. Instantly his gloomy meditations were dispelled, and he leaned forward through the window in the hope of again hearing the strange sound.

Again the long groan was borne to him from out of the darkness; but when he looked down in the direction from which it came he could see only a deep well of darkness and midnight shadows. Suddenly

"God, please help me!"

"It was the voice of a child lying at the base of the building among the half dozen ash barrels in the alleyway. He arose and went down upon the street. A moment later he passed down the alley along the row of ash barrels. Lying beside one of these he discovered the cowering body of a child, a baby boy scarcely more than six years of age. It was half frozen, and judging from the pinched face it had not tasted food for many hours or days. It was clad only in a dirty cloth of rags, and the child's lips were parted in a repeated cry, "God, please help me!"

He lifted the child boy in his long, bony arms and bore it into the house and up the long flight of stairs to his chamber. There he undressed it and sustained and placed it tenderly in his own soft bed. Then he took from his pocket a roll of greenbacks and placed it carefully in the ragged pocket of the child's clothes. Why he did so he was not able to say, but it was an impulse which he could not resist. He said to himself:

"This is another of earth's poor creatures who has been depending on the Lord Christ."

And he resumed his seat by the window.

Thrice as he sat there he heard the mysterious knock at the door; thrice he arose and looked out into the hallway and thrice returned again to his seat, bewildered and mystified; thrice he heard the midnight air entered in a cold gust through the chamber door, and thrice he had answered the low tapping to discover only the midnight darkness. But at last his head fell forward on his breast, and he slept softly; then, when his breathing had become heavier and harder, the door, which he had securely locked, opened slowly, and the white visage of a grinning skull looked in upon him. A moment later the gleaming phosphorescent skeleton entered the chamber and moved nimbly to his side. It placed its bony hand over the sleeping man's lips and held it there until the heavy breathing became inaudible. When the last short breath had escaped the slumberer's lips, it sprang backward with a silent bound and passed out through the open door.

The cold hand of death had completed its work.

In the morning the child arose and found the dead body of its benefactor sitting rigidly in the leather chair by the open window. In its ragged pockets the child discovered the money which the dead man had placed there as it lay asleep in the big, soft bed, and when the crowd surged into the deathroom the child told them in its own way how the dead man had saved its young life. Then the arab of the street passed out of the building into the great, pulsing metropolis and lost itself in the busy crowd.

And in after years that child arose to fame and honor and high position. He became one of the world's great men, one of the wise workers of earth whose life proved beneficial to the world's progress. But the pessimist couldn't force these things, and perhaps it was better.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SENSATION

Sprung by a Witness in the Trial of Lawyer Sullivan in a Chicago Court.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—A sensation that had previously been hinted at by the defense was sprung in Judge Smith's court, in the trial of Lawyer Sullivan, charged with conspiracy in connection with jury bribing in the Chicago courts. Former Bailiff James J. Lynch, whose confessions have named Sullivan as the principal in his crimes of jury bribing and as the abettor in his flight from justice, was quoted by a witness as having, in a conversation in 1898, named George A. Yuliffe and the directors of the West Chicago Street Railway company as the men behind him, and having denied all connection with lawyers. John T. Smith, claim agent for the Grand Trunk and for the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroads, was the witness.

To Restrict Marconi.

St. Johns, Dec. 17.—Marconi has just returned here from Cape Spear, where he experienced poor luck. The weather was rendered extremely unpleasant by fog, wind and rainstorm, and the inventor was unable to decide upon a site for his proposed station. On returning here from Cape Spear, Marconi was served with legal documents from the solicitors of the Anglo-American Telegraph company. These notify him that the said company possesses an exclusive monopoly of the telegraph business within Newfoundland and its dependencies, and demand that he cease his experiments and remove his apparatus forthwith. Marconi has not yet decided what course of action he will take in the matter. He regards this action as the best proof of the importance of his new discovery.

Jeff Wants Fitzsimmons.

Salt Lake City, Dec. 17.—Jim Jeffries gave a four-round boxing exhibition with his brother Jack before the Salt Lake Athletic club. Billy Delaney, Jeffries' manager, stated that after appearing at the Young Corbett benefit in Denver, where the heavy-weight and featherweight champions will spar together, he and Jeffries would go to New York and endeavor to get on a match at once with Fitzsimmons. "All we want," said he, "is six weeks for Jeff to train in."

Monster Boor Petition.

New York, Dec. 17.—Sheriff Grell of New York says the combined German and Dutch societies will soon have 2,000,000 signatures to a petition urging President Roosevelt to enforce the treaty of Washington, which would prevent England from securing supplies of any kind for South Africa. Just as soon as the petition is ready the sheriff said a delegation of 10,000 persons would descend upon congress with the same object in view.

Counting the Cost.

Bethlehem, Pa., Dec. 17.—Insurance and real estate agents agree that the loss suffered here by the flood, when 200 houses and a score of industrial establishments were inundated, will aggregate $100,000. Silk mills, electric light plants, waterworks and a dozen other industries are so badly damaged that it will require another day or two to get them into condition for resumption of operations. No loss of life is reported.

Coaches Burned.

Garden City, Kan., Dec. 17.—An explosion of gas occurred on an east-bound Santa Fe passenger train near here. The smoker, chair car and one sleeper were entirely burned and the passengers, none of whom were injured, were brought here. Conductor John O'Day and Porter Robert Pennington were badly cut and burned about the head and face.

AMUSEMENTS.

All that refinement and intelligence can suggest is embodied in the production of "Maid Marian." DeKovan's latest and brilliant comic opera which will be presented here by The Bostonians at the Auditorium this evening. This opera is a sequel to "Robin Hood" and has been embellished in the most beautiful and lavish manner. The work is divided into three acts, the first showing an old English park, surrounding the Castle of Huntington, the second a brilliant landscape in Palestine, the third a mediaeval interior. The costumes of the 11th century are striking in color and design, and the glittering armor worn by the Knights of St. George form a vivid background to the many beautiful pictures revealed to the eye. Over 100 singers will be employed in the production of "Maid Marian" and the comedy element is entrusted to favorite comedians. At the Auditorium tonight.

A RUNAWAY GIRL.

Mr. Arthur Dunn, the well known and clever comedian, is at the head of a company of some fifty artists that will present the musical comedy "A Runaway Girl" at the Auditorium on Thursday night, Dec. 19. The success attending this production for the past two seasons is entirely due to its own intrinsic merit in the first place and to the lavish style in which it was produced in the second place.

The late Augustin Daly was extremely liberal as well as artistic in all his theatrical productions. "A Runaway Girl" received the benefit of his personal direction and nothing was left undone that would in any way enhance its value or tend towards its success. The result is evidenced by the continued prosperity and popularity of the play wherever presented. The comedy remained at Daly's Theatre for the three hundred nights without intermission, and every city in the East has accorded the production unqualified approval and endorsement.

The songs and music incidental to the play are said to be catchy and inspiring, its lyrics bright and witty and its comedy humorous and infectious. The play is also said to be handsomely staged and costumed, and as the location of the plot is supposed to be in Venice and Corsica, an opportunity is afforded to display some very rich and picturesque costumes and scenery.

MAD WATERS RECEDE

Danger Now Over In Pennsylvania and the East.

DESTRUCTION AND DEATH IN WAKE.

Dozens of Mines and Manufacturing Plants Flooded, Throwing Out of Work Thousands of Men—Railways Still Badly Hampered—Victims of the Blizzard in the West.

Philadelphia, Dec. 17.—The waters covering the flooded districts in eastern Pennsylvania are receding, and railway and telegraphic communication are being restored. From Towanda comes the announcement of three deaths caused by the flood near that town, and the additional statement that two others will die from the effects of exposure. The damage to property and the pecuniary loss from enforced suspension of many industries will reach many hundreds of thousands of dollars. Dozens of coal mines are flooded along with hundreds of industrial concerns located along waterways, thus throwing idle thousands of men. It is estimated that more than 40,000 persons have been rendered idle. The Susquehanna river, which rose at some points 20 feet above low water mark, is going down gradually except in the lower end of the state, where it is reported to be rising two inches an hour. The railway situation is gradually becoming better.

Destruction in Maine.

Portland, Me., Dec. 17.—This state is suffering from one of the severest storms in its history. Floods and washouts have done tremendous damage. The Maine Central railroad has moved no trains since Sunday. The Bangor and Aroostook railroad and the Canadian Pacific lines are in nearly as bad condition. The great mills on the Androscoggin, Kennebec and Penobscot rivers were almost all unable to start their machinery because of high water, and thousands of men are temporarily out of work. Many cities and towns report that great damage has been done to streets, families have been driven from their homes and street railways are inoperative from floods. Many districts are inaccessible because of bad roads.

Rivers Receding.

Easton, Pa., Dec. 17.—Both the Lehigh and Delaware rivers are receding at a pretty rapid rate, and danger of further washouts is passed. The weather is exceedingly cold and ice is forming in the city streets which are flooded. The industrial plants that were submerged are still under water and there is a complete suspension of work. Many of the men who reported for duty gave the contents of their dinner pails to the unfortunate West Eaton families who were imprisoned by the flood. The food was taken to them in boats. The trolley cars are not running and many stores and offices are in darkness because of the flooding of the electric light plant.

Lives Lost.

Cheyenne, Dec. 17.—The severe snow and wind storm which set in last Tuesday night and which has been accompanied by the coldest weather seen in this state for many years, is still raging in some sections. Conditions are becoming more favorable for the stock interests, as cattle and sheep will now be able to secure food on the ranges where the snow has been blown off. Five persons are known to have lost their lives. Of these three were herdsmen, one a railroad man and the other a woman. Five herdsmen were reported lost near Point of Rocks, and as their dogs came to town the men undoubtedly perished.

Another Blizzard.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 17.—A storm of unusual severity is sweeping over southeastern Nebraska. Some snow is falling, and with a high northwest wind it is drifting, but trains are not badly delayed thus far. This is the fourth day of intense cold. Reports from the range country indicate no heavy losses among the stock on the ranches, but owing to the number frozen to death en route, shipping will be abandoned until the weather moderates. T. T. Garnett was frozen to death near Trumbull while looking after his cattle.

Collieries Flooded.

Shamokin, Pa., Dec. 17.—Fourteen thousand men and boys have been rendered idle because of the flood in this district. There are 14 collieries owned by the Philadelphia and Reading railroad and the Pennsylvania railroad in this region, and all of them were flooded by the heavy downpour. It will be several days before all the collieries will be able to resume.

Frozen to Death.

Lyons, N. Y., Dec. 17.—William H. Walker, a painter, was found frozen to death near here. He was on his way to Soda Point, where he said he had a son. He carried a certificate of membership in the American Detective association of Indianapolis, dated September, 1897.

Struck a Handcar.

Guthrie, O. T., Dec. 17.—The Santa Fe northbound passenger train, during the blizzard, ran into a handcar carrying three men north of Guthrie, killing Thomas Kiess and fatally injuring Adolph Farrer, section foreman. Charles Fingle escaped with slight injuries.

Shot by Discharged Clerk.

Kansas City, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Lulu Hockings shot B. R. Andrus, manager of a tea company, at his store in East Twelfth street, because he had discharged her. The woman fired three times, two bullets causing slight wounds. Mrs. Hockings was arrested.

THE GEOGRAPHY CLASS.

"John, what territory of the United States has been called our own frost door of the North?"

"Give it up."

"Mary, what city is called the swinging door between the Occident and the Orient?"

"Isn't it our geography?"

"Charles, what river flows a thousand miles through sandy desert, receives no tributaries and delivers more water at its mouth than it had at its beginning?"

"I can't tell."

The geography class cannot understand what has suddenly changed the teacher's methods until some one finds out she has secured a set of the Standard Lectures and now there will be no peace at home till they own a set. Well, it is a great work for school and home study.

TEASED

Because the City Directory Called Her "Mrs." But Elizabeth Knew It Was All Right.

Mansfield, O., Dec. 17.—Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wagner, of this city, invited a number of guests to dinner Sunday preparatory to what they supposed was the coming marriage of their daughter to Jacob Gimble, of Cleveland. After the guests arrived Mr. Gimble called Mrs. Wagner "mother," to which Mrs. Wagner replied, "Wait awhile—don't call me mother yet."

As Mrs. Wagner said this Mr. Gimble flashed a marriage certificate showing that the couple were already married. It was dated four years ago, and the guests threw up their hands in surprise. The ceremony took place at Buffalo, N. Y. Miss Wagner went to Cleveland in 1897, to visit friends, and while there went to Buffalo with Mr. Gimble. Since then both have been successful in keeping the matter a strict secret.

A peculiar coincidence in connection with the marriage is that the latest city directory, by a typographical error gave Miss Wagner's name as "Mrs." Elizabeth Wagner, and her friends had joked considerably about the matter, not suspecting that she was in reality a "Mrs."

GRAND PRESENTS

Made by the Venerable Robert Fulton, Sr., to His Children, as Christmas Tokens.

The venerable Mr. Robert Fulton, Sr., who is now lying on a bed of sickness at his home in the Cherry Valley did not forget that the Yuletide is drawing near—the time of all the year to give presents to our friends. Mr. Fulton, not wanting to be an exception to the rule, concluded to make the hearts of his children glad by giving each of them a valuable home as a Christmas present. Mr. Fulton has three children, two on the home place with him, a son and daughter. One son, Mr. Wm. Fulton, lives in McPherson, Kansas. To his eldest son, John he gave 100 acres of land where they live; to his daughter, Mrs. O. B. Young he gave 75 acres of land where they live—the difference in amount of acres is because of difference in improvements. The son in Kansas is to have a 100 acre farm north of Granville. Each of these homesteads have been given free of every incumbrance. Mr. Fulton's children were happily surprised as they were not expecting this.

Dr. Koehne will give the first of his series of lectures tomorrow night in Plymouth church at 7.30. These lectures have met with popular favor everywhere but to get the full benefit of these lectures everyone should be heard. The "Union" of San Diego, Cal. says: "An audience of 1500 people heard the great lecturer, John B. Koehne at the Methodist church last night. Every aisle was filled the stairs were covered with people, hundreds stood in the lobbies, and other hundreds were turned away at the doors."

The correspondent of the "Congregationalist" at Tacoma, Wash., says: "The largest church seating 1700, could not accommodate the eager crowds." The "Oregonian," of Portland, says: "The great audience in the First Presbyterian church was entranced with the lecture so brilliant was it of wit, brilliant epigrams and impassioned eloquence. College presidents, and distinguished clergymen throughout the country write in regard to him as one of the most remarkable platform men in America."

JEWELL

Presented to Mr. Cunningham After the Royal Arch Degree Was Conferred Monday Evening.

A very well attended and interesting special convocation of Warren Chapter, No. 6, R. A. M., was held on Monday evening. The degree of the Royal Arch was conferred on three candidates, Dr. I. N. Palmer, Charles W. Kellenberger and Charles L. Flory. At the close of the session of the chapter all present repaired to the banquet room where an elegant repast was served, after which Mr. L. P. Schaus, Grand Scribe of the Grand Chapter, on behalf of the Grand Chapter of Ohio, R. A. M., presented a Past Grand High Priest's jewel to Mr. William M. Cunningham, with a few appropriate remarks. Brother Cunningham was taken completely by surprise, but managed to respond very feelingly in his usual happy manner. The presentation was in accordance with time honored custom to present the retiring Grand High Priest with the jewel of his office. Appropriate remarks were made by a number of the companions present, and the entire session was a very enjoyable and delightful one.

BIG CAR ORDER.

The car department at the Pan Handle shops has received the largest single order for passenger cars in the history of the road. Over $100,000 will be expended in passenger equipment. The order includes 16 wide vestibuled coaches, three 60 foot baggage, mail and express and two postal cars, making a total of 21 cars. The freight shops have just completed an order for 30 flat cars, eighteen of which were turned out of the shops last week. The baggage, mail, express and postal cars will be used on the fast mail trains between Pittsburg, Chicago and St. Louis. The officials are considering a large order for motive power to include passenger freight and yard engines and the road will be better equipped next year than ever before. All of the railroads of the country are expecting an enormous business in 1902 and the Pan Handle is going to be prepared to get her share of it.—Columbus Dispatch.
